NEWS OF PAROWAN.

County Seat People are Energetic and Thrifty.

New Bank Doing Well—Neat Cottages Nearing Completion—Electrician Reid a Papa

Parowan, February 4, 1909.

Editor Record—On the whole, we are an energetic and thrifty, as well as enterprising people. Our school is one of the best under the able and efficient service of Geo. Holt as superintendent. The different grades are doing excellent work, shown by the interest taken the pupils in their respective grades and the high esteem in which they hold their teachers.

Our stores are not carrying as high a class of goods, nor as great a variety as formerly, but this is due to some unavoidable difficulty, and by spring, they will be running at full blast under wise supervision.

Our new Bank is doing well under its capable board of directors. L. N. Marsden as cashier, fills the bill exactly.

Some very nice cottages are now nearing completion, adding much to the appearance of certain portions of town.

The health of our people is excellent, there being but few cases of sickness. Among the latter are numbered Silas J. Ward, county treasurer, who is suffering from pulmonary troubles, and aged Aunt Mary Stevens, whose sickness is due to old age.

Mr. Reid leaves tomorrow morning for Ely, Nevada, where he is employed as electrician, having left his occupation there for a short time to be present at the arrival of "Ettie," their daughter, aged one month.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Page are in Parowan, spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hoyle, the latter being Mrs. Page's mother. They have been living at Paonia, Colo. for the last six years, but have sold there and returned to the home of their youth.

C. R. Kluger, the Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed." Palace Drug Store and John T. Mitchell, Parowan.

Information is given out definitely that in the near future the Ward Hall committee will begin the erection of an addition to the building. It is the intention to build the addition on the west and use the lower portion for quorum purposes, thus obviating the necessity of hiring the district school building. The upper part will be used for stage purposes. In connection with this improvement there will be laid a hard wood floor in the upper story of the main building, which will be welcomed by the dancing element of the town. All it wants is a little patience and some work and Cedar will then have an amusement hall that will fill all requirements.

Hexamethylenetetramine.

The above is the name of the German chemical which is one of the many valuable ingredients of Foley's Kidney Remedy. Hexamethylenetetramine is recognized by medical text books and authorities as a uric acid solvent and antiseptic for the urine. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy as soon as you notice any irregularities, and avoid a serious malady. Palace Drug Store and John T. Mitchell, Parowan.

Letter From Friend.

Ocean Park, Cal., Jan. 22.

Editor Record:—My thoughts often wander to my old home town and I watch for the Record every Monday, anxious for news of my dear friends there.

It may be of interest to some to know how the climate here at present compares with Utah. Many have written of California; its products, climate etc., so I shall not keep you long on that. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of this week were warm summer days.

A cousin from Wyoming is here with me and our children went Monday afternoon bathing in the ocean while we gathered shells about four miles down the coast from here to where the rocks are. I found that shell gathering was hard work when it was necessary to run to rocks to escape the waves, and turn them over to find the shells. Under one rock my hand came in contact with a devil fish and between two large rocks there were two crabs. The fish is in alcohol but the crabs were too large for a glass jar. Our find amounted to the above mentioned, a number of clams and a few small shells. There is something in knowing how to hunt.

As to temperature, Wednesday it was cool and foggy and at night the rain came in torrents and it has been pouring ever since.

There is no delivery here and in going in the rain for mail I was surprised to see under umbrellas held tight down as protection from wind and rain, smiling, genial faces. When I reached home I remarked that my former opinions, about sunshine making smiling faces were rather shaken as it seemed the reverse here. There is so much sunshine here that they watch for the rainy season to freshen vegetation.

Have been on many sight seeing trips to Indian Crafts and Exhibits, Ostrich Farm, Parke, resorts, etc., but perhaps the most unusual would be the one to Catalina Island. We stood for at least twenty minutes holding places in the line for the final rush through the whirl gate to board the Pacific Electric car which took us on land about sixteen miles to San Pedro Harbor. There came the ocean ride on a small ship "Hermosa." The air was rather chilly and foggy but the water calm. Still many got sea sick. The steamer trip lasted about three hours.

We had only time to lunch and go on the glass bottomed boat to see the wonders of the waters, mountains, canyons, gardens, deserts, etc., where the beautiful fish were dressed according to their surroundings, and a variety of shells seen mostly among the rocks. A diver on board went under boat a number of times to supply the passengers with souvenir shells. They were not so plentiful on our way out especially on sandy places but any number with shiny faces up could be seen on our return trip.

The climate certainly advertises and holds up this country, and the people are supported by the tourists to a certain extent.

I was talking to an Iowa lady about the graft everywhere and she remarked: "I have sized it up this way: the people here take a good survey of a new comer to see how much money he has and then another to see how much they can get of it." I find they get ALL of mine.

A progressive and prosperous New Year to the Record.

Yours Truly,

EUPHAMIA DOTSON.

Sad Loss.

A week yesterday there was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Storzer a girl baby. The child seemed to be getting along all right for the first two or three days of its life, when it began to fail and go into convulsions. Everything was done that could be thought of, but the little one died Tuesday evening.

The sympathy of the community goes out to the parents in their bereavement, more especially as this is the second one that they have parted with, the other dying a little over a year ago, having lived but a short time after birth.

Printing is our business. Let us do yours.

THE RECORD.

Answer to "Vaccine."

Editor Record:—How do you stand on the vaccination question anyway? If you favor it that may be the reason of your silence in regard to so many of the young men and maidens of Cedar City being laid up for days at a time from the effects of vaccination. If I am wrong on this last sentence, I would take it as a great favor to be corrected. I think no one will deny that a number of young people paid a heavy penalty on vaccination account some years ago, and some of them are paying it yet.

I would wish that your valued correspondent "Vaccine" had been as liberal with his facts as he was with his assertions. I concede that our quarantine physician—whoever he may be, I don't know—is a "competent and conscientious man," and so was the tentmaker of Taurus, but discovered his mistake in later life. "Vaccine" seems to take it for granted that vaccination prevents small pox, and perhaps it does in some instances. I know that it also kills in some instances. I had a nephew who died a most horrible death from the effects of vaccination. I will not detail my own case, but will say that the doctors injected more poison into my otherwise healthy system, than some of the most skillful of them were able to take out. I suffered much from the effects of it for many years. My own dear sister was duly vaccinated in the orthodox way, but when the epidemic of smallpox came along, she caught it and was the most loathsome sight that I ever saw.

Vaccination during the Victorian era was compulsory, but so many of her subjects revolted against it that the laws were modified so as to make it optional.

The great Teacher said "There shall be no disputations among you," so I have no desire for argument, but every good citizen should try to find out what the Truth is, with a capital T, on every public question. "Truth is truth where're tis found, On Christian or on heathen ground."

If the doctors had been held responsible for the evils done by vaccination, it would have died a natural death long ago. I never heard of a doctor who claimed that the practice guaranteed immunity from small pox, on the other hand, many of the most learned of the profession have condemned it in no uncertain language. "Vaccine" may perchance jump at to the conclusion that I am opposed to safeguarding the young from disease. Not so. Let ever reasonable and sensible precaution be taken to prevent the spread of disease and assist the health board with a hearty good will, but don't for goodness sake send abroad for questionable abomination, and insert it into the healthy and robust young people of Utah, by their arms and legs at so much per.

John Chatterley Surprised.

The many old friends of John Chatterley sprung a surprise on him last night. It was entirely successful and Brother Chatterley's cup of happiness was filled to overflowing to see so many of his friends remember him.

The evening was spent in singing, reciting and short speeches from old settlers, rehearsing the scenes of long ago, which brought back vividly to their memory the struggles of the early settlement of this valley.

Pres. U. T. Jones was there and gave an excellent talk on sociability, one that appealed to all present as the best effort in that line the President has ever made.

Some of the members of the party were asked to dance a jig, which was done in a manner surprising to the on-lookers, for their age. It gave an evidence of the agility that the performers must have had when young.

There were between 75 and 100 guests present, and it was essentially a gathering of old timers, old friends of years gone past and of today, and all enjoyed the reunion of the veterans whose life work has been a monument of strength to this community.

Honore coughs and stuffy acids that may develop into pneumonia over night are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar, and it soothes inflamed membranes, heals the lungs, and expels the cold from the system. Palace Drug Store and John T. Mitchell, Parowan.

The Misses Mame and Wimple Parry entertained some 45 guests at their home last evening. It was an evening of merriment. Lunch was served, and the evening spent in playing games, singing and social chat. It was strictly a young folks party and no married people were in attendance. The guests report that they enjoyed the evening to the fullest extent and are enthusiastic in their praise of the young hostesses.
